Dear Parents,

First of all I thank you for your patience in the situation in which we find ourselves with school now only being open to the children of Key Worker families and those deemed vulnerable, whilst many others of you are now working at home with your children on Home Learning plans.

I write now to let you know about the planning for remote learning as of Monday 11 January. Next week, plans for Isis and Thames children will go live directly onto Google Classroom at 8am each morning for that day's work. The plans we are setting are progressive, with work in literacy and maths building on the previous day's work. In the following weeks we are looking to put plans up ahead of each day, for families who would like to prepare for the lessons in advance, and I will let you know once this is to take place.

Plans for Cherwell will go live directly onto Google Classroom as of 8am on Monday morning, and the Early Years planning will be on Tapestry.

Towards the end of next week we are hoping to begin a short 'live' early morning 'registration session' for children who are home learning, with a member of their teaching staff. This will take place through Google Classroom and I will be writing with details about how this can be accessed next week. In addition, and again towards the end of next week, children who are home learning will be invited to be part of a small twenty minute workshop with other children from their class who are learning remotely. This will be with a member of our teaching staff, and your child will have the opportunity to discuss the work they have been doing.

With my best wishes,
Grace
