Dear Parents,

As explained in the earlier termly letter, on Monday 4th February Cherwell Class will be taking part in a School Days Workshop run by the Museums Service. This morning session will focus on how school life has changed over the past 100 years. It will cover topics such as seating arrangements, gender segregation, respect for teachers, discipline, lack of heating, lessons etc. The children will get the opportunity to experience writing with materials from the past and be able to handle objects from the past.

The children are invited to dress up as school children from a different era, if they wish. If they choose not to, then normal school uniform can be worn.

To cover the cost of this experience and the charge for the Museum Service, we are asking for a voluntary contribution of £3.00.

We are all looking forward to finding out more about what we would have experienced at school one hundred years ago!

Many thanks.
