Dear Parents,

Your children have been working with great determination and purpose this term in many areas of the curriculum. We have been really pleased with the independence and maturity they have demonstrated with their extra practice in preparation for SATs.

Over the Easter Holidays, we will be sending home a SATs practice booklet for children to work through. This should by no means dominate their Easter break; however, keeping key skills ticking over will be of great benefit for when they return to school.

English – Easter Revision booklet

Maths – Number and Place Value, Addition & Subtraction, Multiplication and Division, Fractions

As well as the above, we would also like the children to now work through their SPAG, Maths and Comprehension books at their own pace; little and often is much more effective than one long marathon. Children will have a separate Easter Revision Diary to record their progress during the holiday.

As an incentive, there will be a chocolatey reward for those children who have challenged themselves and completed an appropriate amount of revision. Answers are located in the back of each book and we would appreciate it if you would help your child to mark their work and address any misconceptions they might have.

Some websites that may be helpful to both you and your child to clarify any questions or terminology are:

- BBC Bitesize <https://www.bbc.com/education> (all subjects)
- Education City <https://www.educationcity.com/> (all subjects)
- TOP MARKS (English, Maths and SPAG games)
- Quizlets (search KS2 SPAG or KS2 Spellings)
- Grammar Bytes www.chompchomp.com
- A Maths Dictionary For Kids <http://www.amathsdictionaryforkids.com/>
- Maths is Fun <http://www.mathsisfun.com/>
- English and Maths quizzes <http://www.educationquizzes.com/ks2>

We greatly appreciate all your efforts in encouraging and supporting your children in the run-up to SATs.

Yours sincerely,

H Sparks
